TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—New Jersey was one of the original thirteen states. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 3,155,900, which represents an increase of 618,733, or 24.4 per cent, since 1910. During the same period the population of the United States increased by 14.9 per cent. The following summary shows the population of New Jersey from 1790, the first Federal census year, to 1920, inclusive, together with the number and per cent of increase for each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole:

Counties.—New Jersey has 21 counties, of which 18 show increases and 3 decreases as compared with 1910. (See Table 1.) There have been no changes in county boundaries since 1910.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 7,514 square miles. The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1920 is 420 (see Table 1), as against 337.7 in 1910 and 250.7 in 1900.

Minor civil divisions.—The political units into which the counties are divided are collectively termed "minor civil divisions." The counties of New Jersey are made up of 508 primary divisions, comprising 239 townships, 42 cities, 25 towns, 201 boroughs, and 1 village, each of which is independent of all other divisions. In addition to these independent primary divisions, there are three cities, one town, and two villages, each of which is coextensive with the township in which located. (See Table 2.)

Cities.—New Jersey has 45 cities, of which Newark, with a population of 414,524, is the largest, and Jersey City, with 298,103, ranks second. Three other cities have more than 100,000 inhabitants each. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The summary on the following page shows, for each city or town having 25,000 or more inhabitants in 1920, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the number and per cent of increase during the preceding decade.
